

FARWELL TO SHIP OF SANTIAGO FAME

SAN FRANCISCO, May 17.—"Good bye dear old Oregon" was the sentiment voiced by hundreds of men, women and children during the last week of the Victory Liberty Loan campaign when they visited the famous old battleship for the last time as she lay at anchor in San Francisco bay. Within a few weeks the grim fighter of nearly a quarter of a century ago will take her place with the "Constitution" in the hearts of the American people the Oregon will go out of commission and become a memory.

A few weeks after the sinking of the battleship Maine at Havana the Oregon was in San Francisco harbor when there flushed across the continent on March 12, 1898, from the Navy Department of the Oregon's commander an order to proceed to Callao, (Peru) as soon as practicable. On March 17, Captain Charles E. Clark assumed command, and two days later began the celebrated trip around the Horn."

Captain Clark was not advised that war had been declared against Spain until his arrival at Rio Janeiro, April 30. Great concern was felt in the United States for the lonely Oregon as the whereabouts of the Spanish fleet under Admiral Cervera, which had just left the Cape Verde Islands, was unknown.

The nation breathed a sigh of relief when word was received that the Oregon had arrived safely at Jupiter Inlet, Fla., May 24, after a trip of 14,000 miles made in 68 days. A few days later she joined Admiral Sampson's fleet off Santiago, Cuba and she participated in the great battle of Sunday, July 3, 1898, when Cervera's fleet was annihilated. The Oregon forced the

LOST GRIP

If anyone has seen about town a stray grip full of magazines and medical books, will be kindly reported to Dr. R. Delaney at Mrs. Nichols, 13th Ave., and get a reward. It was taken out of the railroad depot waiting room three weeks ago.
